DALY CITY RESIDENT FOUND DEAD IN HIS GAS FILLED HOME

Harry Woods, a painter, was found dead in his home at 44 Willits street last Saturday morning, he having ended his life, it is believed, because of despondency over the fact that his wife had recently filed suit for divorce.

When Woods failed to come to work on Saturday morning, three of his friends came to his home to find out the reason for his absence. Upon arriving they found the door locked, and noticed the presence of escaping gas.

Officer Otto Schramm and Deputy Coroner Luella Pepper ware calied by Woods' friends and the door was broken open. They found the place filled with gas, coming from three open gas jets that Woods had turned on after sealing all the doors and windows with adhesive tape.

Mrs. Pepper expressed the belief that Woods had evidently been dead for some time.

Mr. Woods, who was 34 years of age, was well known in this vicinity.

Funeral services were held on Monday from the mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co. Cremation was at Cypress Lawn cemetery.

LARGE CROWD ENJOYS ST. PATRICK PROGRAM

With the Daly City Auditorium crowded to the doors last Saturday night, St. Maximus parish celebrated the Feast of St. Patrick with an entertainment and dance.

Singing, dancing and comedy featured the program. Garret Colloty's orchestra opened the program with some selections. Billy and Gene McPoil, costumed in Scotch kilts, followed with a Highland fling. They later sang songs and Gene danced an Irish hornpipe. Mr. John Cameron accompanied them on the bagpipes.

Mr. Henry Lindecker then gave his inimitable imitations of a phonograph and a radio. His only defect was that he was careless about whose radio he imitated.

Miss McKenzie next gave a splendid exhibition of Irish jigging. Messrs. Zunino and Smyth then scored one of the hits of the evening with their Irish and Italian act. Mr. Smyth danced the "Spring Dance" to the music of Mr. Zunino's accordion.

Mr. James E. Leary gave his own version of feeling happy in the old days. Mr. Walter McIntyre told how he had been with Mayor Rolph all afternoon. Mrs. James E. Leary gave a beautiful rendition of Irish ballads.

This concluded the program proper, which was followed by dancing. The evening was one which will not soon be forgotten.

FIRES SHOT THROUGH DOOR AND BRINGS DOWN BURGLAR

Firing through his bedroom door, Vincent Davino, 49 Oliver street, last Wednesday shot a burglar who had jimmied his way into the house. Following a trail of blood, police found Royal Roed, aged 20, of San Francisco, a former high school student, hiding behind a signboard a block away. Roed had a gunshot wound in his right thigh. His mother declares the boy has recently shown signs of mental derangement and had been a patient at the detention hospital on several occasions.

ERRING BANK EMPLOYEE HAS BAIL SET AT $7,500

Dean C. Beshlich, former assistant cashier of the Daly City branch of the Bank of Italy, who is charged with embezling $3,100 from the bank and for whom a search has been made since last January 9, has surrendered. Beshlich's bail has been set at $7,500. He admitted that he had been in hiding near San Francisco all the time and that he decided to give himself up when his friends refused to lend him the funds with which to make restitution.

COMPANY 3 FIREMEN GIVEN CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE FEED

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Company No. 3, Daly City Volunteer Fire Department, entertained the firemen of Company No. 3 and some of their friends at a Maggie and Jiggs corned beef and cabbage feed last Saturday evening in their fire house on Westlake avenue.

The tables and fire house were beautifully decorated for the affair in green, in celebration of St. Patrick's day. Even the head cook was "green," Mrs. A. J. Green.

The evening was spent in dancing, the music being furnished by A. Modest and L. J. Gusti.

Those present to enjoy the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. P. Selmi, Mr. and Mrs. A. Selmi, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. G. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferro, Mr. and Mrs. Trier, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dillon, Mr. and Mrs. J. Heslin, Mr. and Mrs. M. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Wickersham, Mr. and Mrs. E. Foss, Mr. and Mrs. R. LADIES ARE GUESTS OF LOCAL MASONS

The members of Crocker Lodge No. 454, F. & A. M., were not under the necessity of making any excuses for being out late last Tuesday night, as this was "Ladies' Night," and of course the ladies saw to it that the men folks left for home—at the conclusion of the festivities.

A splendid program had been prepared for the ladies, after which dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, when a buffet luncheon was served. Excellent music added to the enjoyment of the occasion, and the large crowd present seemed to enjoy every moment of the evening.

William Kahrau, W. M., and his committee in charge of the "Ladies' Night" program, saw to it that there was not a dull moment during the evening, and as a result the ladies are eagerly looking forward to the next night set aside for their special honor and entertainment.

PASTOR OF GRACE CHURCH TO CLOSE HIS LABORS HERE

Rev. Charles H. Gatchell, who has been pastor of the Grace Presbyterian church for the past twenty-eight months, notified his congregation at the morning service last Sunday that he would close his labors with them during the month of April.

During the months which Mr. Gatchell has been with the church the membership has more than trebled and the interest has been marked in all lines of work.

PERALTA CREW BLAMED FOR FERRY DISASTER

Negligence of the crew caused the ferry boat Peralta disaster in which five lives were lost and scores of passengers swept overboard February 17 last. That was the decision reached yesterday by federal steamboat inspectors after a month of investigation. Two members of the crew, Chief Engineer Edward Dyson and Assistant Engineer James E. Hill, were held for trial March 28 before United States Inspectors Joseph P. Nolan and Captain Frank H. Turner.

The specific charge was that they had failed to give notice to Captain W. H. Melsome, pilot of the ill-fated ferry, that the forward ballast tank was filled. This verdict upheld the contention made all along by the government investigators that the catastrophe could only have been caused by the fact that the forward tank was full as the boat approached the slip, when it should have been empty to counterbalance the weight of passengers moving forward to disembark.

POISONED CLAMS BLAMED FOR REWOOD CITY MAN'S DEATH

Poisoned clams caused the death of W. G. Hinder, a truck driver of Redwood City, according to Dr. Harper Peddicord, who performed the autopsy and the verdict of a coroner's jury. Hilder was taken suddenly ill after partaking of a clam dinner, and died the following morning.

Safeguarding a Community

A city is made or broken very speedily by those at the helm of its government. Many of the general public are those who just perfunctorily register, feeling bored about the necessity, and still more perfunctorily vote, if they bother to vote at all, then, after election, they are prone to criticise the people elected, without any constructive suggestion for betterment.

The public servants of Daly City who are directly responsible for the safety and well being of its citizens have at all times given their most earnest endeavors to making this municipality absolutely safe for families to bring up their children without fear of pernicious social elements creeping into the life of the place, and have, so far, by their constant watchful care, been able to keep Daly City free from crime, criminals and disorderly characters in such a manner that our district invites inspection from the state at large without fear of unfavorable comparison.

We do not need any shotgun squads in Daly City; we have no Saturday night filling up of jails; we know that our citizenry may leave on vacations and feel that, if our very efficient police department is notified in advance, their premises will be inviolate during their absence. All these things are big items when one considers the manner in which public funds are wasted and thrown away in futile extravagance in many places elsewhere.

In short, sometimes we are too prone to pick our city officials to pieces for small items of omission, perhaps, when they are really giving a full quota of time, thought and genuine service to Daly City. After all, where can our city fathers graft? There is not very much opportunity, where every item of local expenditure is thoroughly thrashed out before board meetings, and public gatherings, and there is never a project undertaken that is not first submitted to the voters, and gone into only with their full sanction and approval.

Therefore, voters of Daly City, consider well the undertaking you will face on April 9th, and give due thought to casting a thoughtful, intelligent vote which will be to the benefit of all the people of Daly City.

EASTERN STAR MEMBERS ENJOY 'HAWAIIAN TRIP'

The members of Crocker Chapter No. 382, Order of the Eastern Star, enjoyed a trip to Hawaii last Monday night, without the attendant seasickness usually experienced on such journeys.

The trip was made in record time, and was a surprise to most of the members, being a moving picture presented for the instruction and entertainment of the members following the business session of the Chapter.

Philip C. Hall, traveling passenger agent of the Matson Navigation Company, operated the picture machine, presenting four reels, showing many points of interest in the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. Hall, who was born in Hawaii, sang a number of the songs of his native country, in addition to delivering a most interesting lecture on the different scenes shown. Mr. Hall has a very pleasing voice and his songs and lecture were thoroughly appreciated, as well as the pictures.

From the expressions heard after the presentation of the pictures, we would not be surprised if a number of Daly City residents really make the trip to Hawaii some time in the near future.

Following the Hawaiian trip, a buffet luncheon was served, the committee chosen by Worthy Matron Florence Stockton to have charge of the luncheon being Katherine Neiderhaus, Sophie Root, Rosa Ziedes, Julia Romer, Roberta Petty and Alice Elmers.

LOCAL PASTOR GOES ON TRIP TO EUROPE AFTER EASTER

Rev. James Donohoe, pastor of St. Maximus church, is to be the guest of his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Lund, on a trip which will include Rome, Lourdes and Ireland, shortly after Easter. All the members of Father Donohoe's family are assembling this summer to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their parents' wedding in the old home in Ireland.

During the absence of Father Donohoe, Rev. John A. Lynch will have charge of the parish. The Archbishop has given Father Donohoe a six months leave of absence from the parish.

ENTERTAINS FOR MOTHER

Mrs. H. Hutchings, of 480 Westlake avenue, entertained in honor of her mother, Mrs. L. Glos, who celebrated her sixty-seventh birthday on Monday. A buffet luncheon was served to the following guests: Mrs. E. Kruse, Mrs. L. Gardenelli, Mrs. J. Dillon, Mrs. J. Eagan, Mrs. K. Wayne, Mrs. E. Maloney, Mrs. S. Bowen, Miss D. Hutchings. Mrs. Glos received many beautiful gifts.

APPRECIATE SERVICES OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES

The regular meeting of the Jefferson Union high school board of education was held in the high school building on Tuesday evening last at 8 o'clock. There was a full attendance of the trustees.

After the transaction of the routine business, President Gehringer announced that the terms of Mrs. Stella Jensen and Mr. Lewis Stark as members of the board expire on April 30, and that both Mrs. Jensen and Mr. Stark had qualified as candidates to succeed themselves.

There being no other candidates to fill the vacancies, it is assured that the personnel of the high school board will remain the same during the coming term.

Besides the President, Trustees Bentley and Brown both expressed themselves as highly pleased that the Jefferson Union high school district is to continue to have the efficient service of Trustees Jensen and Stark. Mrs. Jensen has served the high school district continuously as school trustee since its organization. She is secretary of the board, a position which involves a tremendous amount of clerical work. But this she does gratuitously because of her interest in the Jefferson Union high school district, and her devotion to the welfare of the boys and girls in the high school.

Mr. Lewis Stark, too, takes pleasure in rendering unselfish service to the schools because of his interest in the pupils and the community. His long experience as a business man in Colma, coupled with his wide acquaintanceship, makes him a valuable representative in such a capacity.

Principal James Ferguson added his appreciation to that already expressed regarding the services rendered the high school by Mrs. Jensen and Mr. Stark. "With such hearty co-operation and efficient service as is given by such trustees, and in turn inspired by them, the citizens of Jefferson Union high school district can look forward with assurance to successful operation of their high school and to enlarged opportunities for the education of their children," he said. "Their slogan, and that of the board," he added, "is strict economy, coupled with the highest efficiency. This will not only assure a highly successful school system, but will, in turn, attract to this district families that desire to get for their children the best education possible."

Governor Smith Backers to Meet

A meeting in behalf of Governor Alfred E. Smith's candidacy for the presidency is to be held at the Central school auditorium, San Mateo, next Monday evening, March 26. The speakers will be Justus Wardell and J. W. Ehrlich, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Cecilia Caserly, of Hillsborough.

AIRCRAFT SHOW AT MILLS AIRPORT TO BE HELD IN APRIL

Official announcement of completed plans for the first annual Western Aircraft Show, to be staged at Mills Field, San Francisco's municipal airport, April 11 to 15, has been made by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the show.

There will be no charge for exhibit space and the public will be admitted free of charge to all the program events.

Committees of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by Porter Sesnon, have been working for several months on the pretentious program for the show, which is expected to outrank any aircraft exposition ever attempted in any part of the world.

The first annual Western Aircraft Show will commemorate aircraft's twenty-fifth aniversary and will depict the progress of aviation from the first flight of the original Wright brothers' plane in 1903 to the recent aerial accomplishments of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Scores of manufacturers of airplanes, instruments and accessories, have arranged for exhibit space, which is being assigned at Mills Field in the order in which applications are being received.

The purpose of the show is to promote development of air transportation and to incidentally advertise the efficiency of the Mills Field airport, which is recognized as "America's Model Municipal Airport."

The show program will include day and night aircraft exhibits and flights at Mills Field, airport conferences, an aviation ball at the Palace Hotel, band concerts, and the projection of the motion picture "History of Aviation," showing the progress of aviation during the past twenty-five years.

DE MOLAY MEMBERS VISIT GRACE CHURCH

Last Sabbath was another splendid day with us at Grace Presbyterian church, and all departments were more than interesting.

The De Molay Chapter came in a body. Prayer was offered by the Chaplain of the order, Mr. Howard Roof, and a few well chosen words were given by the Grand Master. Two coronet solos were given by Mr. Schroll, and a beautiful vocal solo by Mrs. Charles Roof, and all were greatly appreciated.

The Sunday evening service was above par, as the crowd was splendid and the interest for real church building.

Don't fail to hear Dr. W. Clyde Smith on Sabbath evening, and then be with us in the Communion services. We expect to receive some new members at this meeting, and we invite any who may contemplate doing so to come and talk it over with us before the meeting.

We are planning special music for this Sabbath evening, and we trust that we may have a full house to greet Dr. Smith. Mr. James Reed, tenor, will sing "Sands of the Desert" and "The Holy City" at the evening service.

The Ladies of the Guild held their sewing circle on Wednesday and a good attendance and a good time was had. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alward, Mrs. Joe Swan and Mrs. Brauns.

CHAS. H. GATCHELL, Minister.

PROF. GOUDEY TO PLAY SPECIAL PROGRAM SUNDAY

Prof. T. Eugene Goudey will play the following program of high class church music from the greatest masters at the evening service of the Daly City Methodist church this coming Sunday evening, March 25, at 8 o'clock: Prelude, "Inflammatus," from Stabat Mater, by Rossini; Offertory, "The Rosary," by Nevin (arranged by Prof. Goudey); Postlude, March Pontificale, from Mass in F, by Gounod. Musical people appreciating the best in church music will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing inspiring music played in a reverent spirit by an experienced musician.

DEATH OF AGNES E. BRABANT

It was with much sorrow the many friends of Mrs. Agnes A. Brabant, of Winchester street, learned of her sudden death on Saturday morning. Mrs. Brabant was the wife of Joseph E. Brabant, and loving mother of Gladys A. and the late Eva June Brabant, sister of Mrs. W. E. Stockwitz, Mrs. J. Harowitz and Robert E. Hamilton. Mrs. Brabant was a native of San Francisco. She was a member of El Carmelo Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West. The funeral was held on Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., from H. F. Suhr Co. Interment at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

PROPOSE STATE PARK ALONG BURLINGAME SAN MATEO BEACHES

A state park along the San Mateo and Burlingame beaches, to include Coyote Point and the site of Pacific City, will become a reality if plans of a delegation from Burlingame and San Mateo, appearing last Monday before the State Park Commission, is successful.

This meeting, one of the first of the kind called, was attended by more than 300 representatives from all parts of the state.

The suggestion offered by the delegation from Burlingame and San Mateo, if accepted by the state commission, will give to these communities a state park of about 500 acres, to include the wooded property at Coyote Point, the site of the Pacific City enterprise, the beach adjacent to Pacific City, and much of the tideland that might be filled in for park purposes.

The last legislature planned the spending of $6,000,000 for state parks and authorized the appointment of a state commission to prepare plans and suggested areas to be submitted to the people for a vote at the November election.

If the proposed area is accepted, it will be a valuable asset to Burlingame and San Mateo, as well as a great portion of San Mateo county.

The petition of the two cities was presented by Fred Beer, mayor of San Mateo, who, with City Manager Oscar Weissgerber, represented that city. Burlingame was represented by Dr. John W. Leggett, chairman of the Burlingame city planning commisison, and Guy Wilfred Hayler, city planning consulting engineer of Burlingame.

MASONS TO BE GUESTS OF THE M. E. CHURCH

The members and friends of Crocker Lodge, F. & A. M., will be the guests of the Daly City Methodist church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

A special musical program has been arranged, and will be among one of the finest ever given by the church.

The pastors' subject will be, "The Challenge of Masonry."

The musical numbers will be as follows:

Soprano Solo, "The House by the side of the Road," (Words by Sam Walter Foss; Music by Mrs. M. H. Gulesian)—Mrs. James R. Bennett.

Mixed Quartet, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains" (Music by Morrison); Soprano, Mrs. James Ferguson; Alto, Mrs. G. Gehringer; Tenor, Mr. Stanley Lewis; Bass, Mr. James Ferguson.

Prof T. Eugene Goudey, pianist and musical director.

This program alone is enough to bring every music lover to church on Sunday evening.

Sunday morning the pastor will preach the last in a series of sermons based upon Dr. S. D. Gordon's book, "Quiet Talks on Power," the subject being, "Fresh Supplies of Power." You will agree with others that the 11 o'clock service is well worth while, and will give you a new sense of peace on God's Sabbath.

The Epworth League will debate upon the subject "Is the Ku Klux Klan Christian in its Attitude?" This will be a debate worth while and will be held Sunday evening promptly at 7 o'clock. This ought to be of interest to everyone, and owing to the fact that the seating capacity is limited, we would advise everyone to come as early as possible.

We are still in need of funds to begin work on our proposed basketball and volleyball court, and we are asking the community to help us make this possible for the boys and girls, as well as the older folks, that will have an opportunity to enjoy it. The church phone number is Delaware 2131.

A late issue of the Methodist Bulletin contained this poem, entitled "It's You."

If you want to work in the kind of a church like the kind of a church you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip and start on a long hike.
You'll only find what you left behind, for there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your church; it isn't your church—it's you.
Real churches aren't made by men afraid lest somebody else go ahead;
When everyone works and nobody shirks, you can raise a church from the dead.
And if while you make your personal stake, your neighbor can make one, too,
Your church will be what you want to see; It isn't your church—it's you.

ELLIOTT L. FISHER, Pastor.

PLAN STATE CONTROL OF TRAFFIC OFFICERS

The Division of Motor Vehicles is in sympathy with the move recently launched by the California Association of County Supervisors to place all county traffic officers under state control, through appropriate legislation, and is willing to lend its co-operation in any way that the supervisors may suggest.

This, summed up, was the attitude expressed by Frank G. Snook, chief of the division, in an interview given newspapermen on the resolution that was adopted at the recent convention in which the supervisors deplored the present "dual system of authority" in traffic law enforcement, and urged legislation to correct its evils.

"I am glad to note," said the motor vehicle chief, "that the supervisors took a stand in favor of placing the traffic officers under a strong centralized authority to provide adequate and uniform enforcement.

"It is gratifying to me to see that the supervisors have reached the same conclusion that I have long entertained, namely that we cannot have proper enforcement until dual authority has been eliminated.

The report of the supervisors' committee, which was adopted, points out that there is a general lack of uniformity and declares, in effect, that the officers are being compelled to serve two masters. It also goes on to show that the officers can not be moved from one locality to another, another fact mitigating against proper enforcement.

"These are my contentions exactly, and I am glad to see that the supervisors have taken the same attitude from their own experiences with the traffic situation.

"While I have always entertained these convictions, I have been reluctant to take any steps to place the officers under direct state control, as I did not want to be placed in the position of taking any power away from the supervisors.

"I am therefore much pleased to see that the supervisors have taken it upon themselves to initiate this move.

"In initiating the policy of co-operation with the boards of supervisors in the matter of appointment of traffic officers I did so with a feeling that the dual system should be given a fair trial. I have never gone over the heads of any of the boards in making appointments, having always named men they recommended without question.

"It is therefore gratifying to see that they too, after giving the system a trial, have decided that it should be abandoned."

ACTUAL RESULTS SECURED

During last Fire Prevention week, losses sustained from fire were $800,000 less than weekly average during the year, proving conclusively that fire losses of the country can be reduced when interest and co-operation of the public is aroused.

A summary of results reported shows very definitely the benefits resulting from observance of Fire Prevention week. It shows that the average weekly loss of the cities reporting was $1,216,634. During the week of October 2, the loss was $400,848; in the week of October 9, it was $401,750, while the following week of October 16 showed a decline to $33,884. Of cities reporting for 1927, 60.8 per cent showed a definite reduction in loss of property by fire, and 33.8 per cent reduction in life loss.

By judiciously choosing where to dig fish bait one may get a fair start toward the spring garden at the same time.

Reduced Rates

Invite greater use of electricity

It is now possible for customers to make greater use of electricity for better lighting, heating, cooking, and the operation of modern electric labor saving appliances.

Heating and cooking by electricity at rates as low as 1½ cents makes it more attractive for those customers not now using this clean, quick, convenient fuel.

New rates benefit large and small users

In addition to providing a material reduction in the minimum monthly cost to those who use very little, the schedules also provide new and much lower rates for the energy consumed.

The effect of the new rate on each consumer depends upon his use of the facilities available to furnish service. The more used, the lower the average rate.

Electricity is cheaper—you can use more of it

Our representatives will be pleased to explain the new reduced schedules in detail.

LAW ENFORCEMENT; NOT MORE LAWS

In considering a remedy for crime, the following statement constitutes the keynote of the report made by the sub-committee of the National Crime Commission:

"There is now a tendency to insist upon harsher punishment as a cure-all for all crime, whereas of far more importance, it will be found, is the building up of police and court management capable of catching and convicting a far larger percentage of the individuals who commit crime."

Law enforcement is the real answer to crime prevention. Arrests for robbery in England, Wales and Canada average 84 per cent. In the United States, Cleveland and Baltimore top the list with 49 per cent and 47 per cent respectively, while other cities dwindle down to as low as 3 per cent. The ratio of convictions to the number of arrests made, run as strongly in favor of England and Canada as do the first figures mentioned, and make as unfavorable a showing for the United States.

Such figures tell a striking story and show that there must be, first, efficient police, and, second, elimination of loopholes in legal procedure to promote the escape of the male-factor.

Commenting on the situation, the Portland Oregonian says the crime situation has reached a point in many of our cities where the luckless law-breaker who is occasionally caught and convicted actually attributes his misfortune to an act of God, as he would in case of a disastrous storm, shipwreck or earthquake.

STATE THEATRE SECURES SOME SPLENDID PICTURES

This Saturday, March 17, the State Theatre will present two worth while pictures, Vera Reynolds in "The Little Adventuress," and Buck Jones in "Desert Valley."

On Sunday, March 25, there will be another double feature, Tom Mix in "The Circus Ace," and Dorothy Mackaill in "The Crystal Cup.

Next Monday and Tuesday, March 26 and 27, that much talked of picture in which Alice Terry is starred, "The Garden of Allah," will be shown.

Wednesday and Thursday, March 28 and 29, Charles Murray in "The Gorilla" will furnish the patrons of the State one of the best attractions of the season.

Friday, March 30, Rod La Rocque in "The Fighting Eagle," will vie with the Novelty Nite program. A good picture and an unusually pleasant time is promised.

BETTER FARM HOMES

Among the states in which the degree of Master Farmer was conferred last year, Oklahama made a good showing with 18 outstanding farmers so honored. Naturally they were selected from those who not only had made farming profitable, but had also given attention to means for improving conditions of farm life.

It was found that without exception these 18 men had given thought to their homes, as well as to the efficiency of their farming operations. In each case the farm home was equipped with a lighting system, running water, sanitary facilities and labor-saving equipment to lighten the burdens of the housewife.

The extension of electricity to the farm is going forward rapidly in many states, and is enabling women of rural communities to enjoy most of the conveniences formerly confined to town and city. Any scheme for the betterment of country life is incomplete which does not seek to reduce the drudgery of the farm women and add to the comfort and attractiveness of the farm home.

ELECT WALTER F. HUGHES FOR TRUSTEE OF YOUR CITY

Voters, your attention is called to a worthy candidate for election as City Councilman of Daly City. Since he came to your city to make his home, he has made many friends among you. He has always expressed progressive and constructive ideas for the good and betterment of the community.

All the qualifications necessary for a successful administration, he possesses. The conduct of the office he is seeking requires a man who has business experience, executive and practical ability and sincerity of purpose. His years of business dealings in your community has proven his business ability, and his record of service over seas with the 167th Infantry, 42nd Rainbow Division, and the 60th Engineers, into which service he entered as a private and came back a commissioned officer, proves his executive and practical ability. No one can dispute his reputation as a man of sincerity of purpose.

If he is given a chance by his election, he will prove to you he has the public interest at heart and that he will do everything in his power to promote the welfare and progress of the community.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

The State Board of Education a few days ago announced April 2 to 4 as the dates for the annual California Music Conference. The meeting will be held in Fresno. Dr. Alexander Roberts, president of the San Francisco State Teachers College, will deliver the keynote address to State music teachers on "Music and the Social Program."

Construction of California's new custodial institution for the criminal insane is progressing rapidly at Mendocino State Hospital, and the State's plan for segregation of mentally diseased persons with definite anti-social tendencies will soon be in operation.

Organization of a passenger airplane line to make four trips between Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento was announced last week at Oakland by J. T. Hurst and A. H. Fefelle of the Mutual Aircraft Corporation of Los Angeles. Other lines are contemplated between Eureka and San Francisco, and between Oakland, Modesto, Bakersfield and Fresno.

A domestic water supply for Redding, Shasta county, to be secured from wells east of the city, rather than from the Sacramento river, was tentatively approved recently by the State Board of Health. Unless serious protests develop, the proposal submitted by the California Water Service Company is expected to receive definite approval from the State board at its next meeting.

William Edward Hickman left los Angeles and the scene of his atrocious crime last week. He was whisked to San Quentin under guard to await hanging of April 27. "The Fox" was sentenced to life imprisonment by Superior Judge Elliot Craig the day he left Los Angeles. At the same time Welby Hunt, his younger accomplice in the murder of Clarence Ivy Toms, received a life term. Hickman is also under sentence to the gallows for the kidnaping and murder of Marion Parker.

State expenditures totaling approximately $4,250,000 are involved in highway and bridge projects on which the State department of public works will take action during the present month, it was announced last week by Bert B. Meek, departmental director. Contracts will be awarded or bids requested by the State on bridge and road building in nearly a score of counties before the end of March, Meek said.

Gasoline consumption for the United States increased 12.4 per cent during 1927. In making the announcement a few days ago the American Road Builders' Association at Washington also stated that California led all the States with 1,017,681,000 gallons. All but three States are now imposing a gasoline tax, New York, Illinois and Massachusetts being the exceptions, and the association predicted that total gas tax collections would exceed $200,000,000.

The crime of issuing a fictitious check cannot be wiped out in California simply by returning the mnoey. Superior Judge J. R. Hughes so ruled a few days ago at Sacramento in the case of Arthur Nichols, who sought to escape punishment by arranging to cover a worthless check for $40 which he had previously admitted issuing. Nichols was ordered to Folsom prison for an indeterminate sentence.

During the month of March the California Vehicle act in respect to proper signalling by motorists will be rigidly enforced. A bulletin to that effect was sent a few days ago to all County Captains of the State Police by Frank G. Snook, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles. Snook pointed out that all signalling must be done within fifty feet of the contemplated turn and that the signalling must be continuous while the motorist is approaching the turning zone. The motor official deplored the use of three fingered signalling and advocated the use of the full hand in the signalling maneuvers.

A provisional estimate by the census bureau at Washington a few days ago placed the population of the United States as of July 1, 1928, at 120,013,000, an increase of 14 per cent over the 105,710,620 actual count on January 1, 1920. The next federal census will not be taken before 1930. Florida, where the population was estimated to have increased about forty-eight per cent between 1920 and 1928, showed the greatest gain, although a 35 per cent increase was indicated for California, and nearly 30 per cent gain for Michigan. The complete California figures are: 1920 census, 3,426,861; 1928 estimate 4,556,000.

State employes should be pensioned after thirty years' service from a fund created by monthly payments of employes and matched by an equal amount from the State, the State pension commission was told by approximately 100 State employes at a hearing in the senate chamber at Sacramento last week. The minimum pension would be $30 monthly with a disability clause after ten years of service. The State should also refund the amount that the employe had paid in if death should occur before reaching the age of retirement, the commission was told.

RAY TRYING FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Famous Mile Runner Has Heart Set on Comeback.

The call of the 1928 Olympic games has beckoned Joie Ray, one of America's greatest mile-runners, back to the track to seek the laurels held by Lloyd Hahn, Boston runner, and Paavo Nurmi, the Olympic champion.

Every evening, as soon as he has finished his daily labors in the steel mills of Gary, Ind., Joie reports to his coach, Johnny Behr, of the Illinois Athletic club, for practice. For nearly ten years, from 1915 to 1923, Ray was supreme at the mile race among American runners. Then came the Nurmi invasion and the flying Finn raced Joie into defeat which led to Ray's temporary retirement.

Still under thirty years of age, Ray believes, and so does Behr, that there is a chance to catch the antelope of Abo, if they meet in the 1,500 and 5,000-meter races at the Amsterdam Olympic games this summer.

It is more than eight years since Ray, at about the peak of his form, set up A. A. U. records for the 1,000 yards and one mile which still stand. But only three years ago, he equaled the American performance of Nurmi in running a mile in 4 minutes 12 seconds. Nurmi, however, is credited with the world record of 4:10.6.

When Nurmi went back to Finland with about all the American marks shattered, Ray dropped out of competition and became a taxi-driver, as he needed a fresh-air job. He tired of this, so he went to the Gary steel mills, seeking a job which would add weight and muscle to his slight frame. He has been there ever since, and when indoor track training began this winter, Joie was back in harness.

Too Much Ukulele Costs Rookie's Job

Walter Shaner, weak first baseman, and one of the best hitters in the Eastern league, has been sent back to the minor leagues by the Red Sox because he has such a musical disposition.

Shaner, a big fellow, broke into the Eastern league in 1923 with Springfield while Patsy Donovan was manager. He acted like a toe dancer on nearly every throw he handled until Donovan could stand the strain no longer and put Walter into the far reaches of the outfield. But Shaner could hit. He went to Cleveland from Springfield and finally landed with the Red Sox. There he proved a ukulele expert and even brought his uke from the clubhouse to the bench. Bill Moore, catcher with a sweet voice, teamed up with Shaner. They entertained the other players as well as themselves, but in doing so hit a sour note in Bill Carrigan's make-up, and both have been shunted down to Mobile.

Four Big-League Clubs Bid for Bruce Caldwell

Bruce Caldwell, the Yale football hero, may develop into the much sought after college baseball player of the year before he hangs up his togs in June.

The Yankees, Griffmen, Giants and Robins, are very much interested in Caldwell, and it is said that the Yankees have Caldwell's word that he will let them have a priority claim on his services if he elects to play professional baseball.

Caldwell, however, has been careful not to do anything to injure his amateur standing and cause a recurrence of the incident which caused him to be barred from the Princeton and Harvard football games last fall. He was barred for having played two games with the Brown Freshmen in 1923.

The Yale star is a second baseman, modeled along the lines of Rogers Hornsby.

Gar Wood Accepts

Commodore Gar Wood of Detroit, holder of the British international trophy, has accepted the challenge of the British Royal Yacht club to defend his title this fall. By telephone from Miami, Fla., Wood expressed satisfaction that a challenge had been made and said he would guarantee the f. A. A. and the Detroit Yacht club that he would be ready.

History in Legends

An Indian chief has dictated to his secretaries a history of his tribe from the creation of the world as it is related in legends.

Erland Nordenski, the Swedish explorer, who has just returned from Panama, has brought back a copy of the history, which he regards as one of the trophies of his expedition.

His special interest was the Cuna tribe of the Atlantic coast. They are people of good intelligence and culture who cling to their old traditions The chief who dictated the history employs two secretaries, one familiar with English, the other with Spanish.

Catches Speech Flaws

Correct enunciation is soon learned with the aid of the telegraphone, a new device used in public speaking classes at the University of Southern California to enable students to hear themselves talk, Popular Science Monthly reports. Like a dictaphone, it records and reproduces the voice, but the record is so perfected that when it is played over it reveals any imperfections of speech such as indistinct tone or lisping.

Valiancy is never boastful.

Life's Vicissitudes

Mrs. Emily Glazier recently died in the Emily Glazier Home for Aged Methodist Women at Pontiac, Mich., which was founded years ago with wealth inherited from her banker husband. Her son's financial difficulties swept this wealth away and she died in one of the rooms she had furnished soon after she had given the land for the home and advanced $10,000 for its erection.

Lucky Shot May Be Costly

While hunting near Clearfield, Pa., William McMullen killed two deer with one bullet. A big buck got within range and he fired, the bullet going through the buck's head, killing it instantly, and then hit a doe which was hurrying by. The game warden is trying to decide whether Mr. McMullen must pay two fines, one for killing two deer in one season and the other for killing a doe.

THE CANDIDATES

Before the presidential campaign gets too warm, it might be well to attempt an impartial survey of the avowed aspirants, avoiding for the moment any party considerations whatsover.

Undoubtedly the most prominent candidates just now are Hoover and Smith. It is said that the public is favorably disposed toward Hoover, but that strong political leaders are not so strong for him. Smith will undoubtedly go to Houston with powerful support, but the Democratic two-thirds rule is against him.

Lowden has permitted his name to appear on early primary ballots, but seems disinclined to make an aggressive effort for delegates at present. Dawes is held in favor by many, but he is supporting Lowden. Curtis, Willis and Watson appear just now to be only in the favorite son class, but may develop national strength as the campaign advances.

Among the Democrats other than Smith, Reed of Missouri seems to be the most aggressive candidate, and his recent speaking tour has apparently created a favorable impression. McAdoo some time ago moved to eliminate himself from the race, but more recently there came indications that he would be a receptive candidate, although he has declared for Walsh of Montana.

There are a number of others who have been "mentioned," but none of them has developed any tangible support of consequence. As matters now stand, it appears that the two standard bearers may be selected from the list mentioned above.

Still, anything may happen in a national convention, and a dark horse may appear at the last moment to capture the nomination of either party. Who can tell?

THE DRUG MENACE

Comparatively few persons are aware of the growing menace of narcotic drug addiction, which is spreading at such a rate as to threaten to debauch a large portion of the human race. It seems to be definitely established that a large percentage of habitual criminals are addicted to the use of morphine, cocaine or heroin, the last being the most dangerous and deadly of all.

Assistant Attorney General Crim has declared that about 40 per cent of the prisoners confined in federal penitentiaries are victims of these drugs. Similar testimony is given by prison and police officials and medical authorities in many localities.

Heroin was discovered in 1898 and began to be exploited in America in 1910. It is estimated that there are now no less than 200,000 heroin addicts in the city of New York alone. Peddlers induce young people to try the drug, often describing it as "headache powders." One indulgence a day for a week will usually leave the victim a hopeless addict, who will stop at nothing that will enable him to procure the drug. He has embraced the "living death," with horrible suffering and actual death inevitably to follow.

To combat this terrible peril the Narcotic Defense Foundation has been organized, with Richmond P. Hobson as president, and a board of directors which includes Senator Arthur Capper, Senator Reed Smoot, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, William Randolph Hearst, Cardinal D. J. Dougherty, Bishop W. B. Stevens, K. A. Bickel, head of the United Press, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other distinguished citizens.

The support of the press and public is asked for their efforts to educate the youth of the land concerning the drug habit, and to reclaim its victims wherever possible. This is a tremendous task which challenges the thought and action of every friend of humanity.

SHIPS OR BLUEPRINTS

Seldom has a department's bill for appropriations or authorizations been slashed so unmercifully as that of the Navy Department, calling for seventy-one warships to cost $740,000,000, which the House Naval Committee has cut to sixteen ships to cost $274,000,000.

This reduction in the naval building program was brought about largely through the flood of protests which poured into Washington from organizations and individuals who considered the proposed expenditure unwarranted.

It was not likely that all those ships would have been built anyway. Many believe that Secretary Wilbur was recommending such an extensive program in the hope that it would lead other nations, particularly Great Britain, to agree to further disarmament, which would avert the necessity for the enormous expenditure proposed. It has been suggested that Mr. Wilbur would not have gone beyond the blueprint stage in the case of a majority of the vessels asked for.

Whatever may have been the motive, it appears that it would be unwise to build so many ships under present conditions. It would hardly make for international good will to set such a pace, besides, in case a limitation of armaments should be agreed upon later, it would mean great loss to the nation through the scrapping of good ships. It was said of the former naval conference which adopted the 5-5-3 ratio that while Uncle Sam scrapped real ships, some other nations merely scrapped blueprints. It might be as well for us to have more blueprints and fewer ships to scrap the next time.

ASK YOUR BANKER

There must be as many gullible people in the world as ever, judging from the high-powered stock selling literature which still passes through the mails. Oil and mining stocks of the wild-cat variety appear to have held their own in popular favor, although one would think the public had been sufficiently warned against them by this time.

While it may be too sweeping to say that all such stocks sold by mail are swindling devices, it is perfectly safe to class the vast majority of them as such. It may be that somewhere, sometimes, a person has bought such stocks on the strength of promotion literature and has realized a profit on his investment. But if such be the case, we have never heard of it.

Sometimes an "investor" may receive small "dividends" for a time, but these are usually merely bait to encourage additional investments, which are eventually lost. This does not apply, of course, to the securities marketed by reputable financial concerns, but refers to the "blue-sky" kind which are readily recognized by prudent business men.

When tempted to invest in unknown stocks of any kind, it is a wise precaution to first consult your banker. His advice will always be on the side of safety, and may be the means of avoiding serious loss.

Overseer Volivia has lost an income tax suit which will cost him around $8,000. He may still believe the world is flat, but probably doubts that is is square.

A New York bandit was cured of his criminal propensities by three surgical operations. One would have sufficed, if they had simply amputated his head.

Pockets are said to have been invented about the fifteenth century. And a dutiful wife doubtless discovered them the next morning.

As we understand it, a he-man is one who possesses a high degree of male masculinity.

A fellow named English will play shorstop with the Cubs this season. Oh, Mayor Thompson.

SIDELIGHTS

Corn cure concerns should soon experience an improvement in their business, as 247 entrants recently started on the trans-continental foot race from Los Angeles to New York.

Judge Marschner of Detroit does not approve extreme formality between a husband and wife. He granted a woman a divorce on the ground that her husband never spoke to her, but wrote her notes addressed: "To whom it may concern."

Even breaking and entering may have extenuating circumstances. L. R. Stutz of New York was caught in the act of breaking into a tailor shop and was arrested. He escaped prosecution, however, when he explained that the shop had closed without returning his suit in which he was to be married that night.

The season's prize hen and egg story comes from Pembroke, Ontario, where a hen owned by Hugo Ter-Marsch laid three eggs in half an hour. The first was perfectly normal, the second had a very thin shell, while the third had no shell at all.

Although John A. Balfour did not literally keep a promise made to a little girl of Albany, N. Y., 30 years ago, he did not forget her. Leaving for South Africa in 1898, he promised Alida Taylor, "a nice doll." He became a diamond mine owner and upon his death recently left his former little friend, who is now Mrs. Rooney, a legacy of $850,000.

School attendance officers often have difficulty in keeping children in school, but M. M. Grey of Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, is having unusual troubles in connection with that duty. About 30 children under his jurisdiction are being kept out of school by their parents, who believe the world is coming to an end in a few weeks, and make the children attend church services every day instead of going to school.

INDUSTRY GREAT GAS USER

While the use of gas is growing daily in industry and the home, a comparatively few people realize the hundreds of different uses to which gas is put.

Furriers use gas to dry rabbit skins more rapidly and uniformly than by any other means. Willow furniture is singed by means of a gas flame. A single plant for retinning milk cans is using 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas a year to heat the metal.

An automatic gas iron has been developed to iron new hats while they rae still on the block. A gas flame transmits sound vibrations with notable smoothness in a new type of phonograph. Combined with oxygen, gas is used to cut heavy steel plate into the most intricate patterns. Combined with hardwood sawdust, gas is used to smoke hams and bacon. Hundreds of miles of cloth in textile mills are singed by gas.

It is estimated that approximately 5,000 industrial applications of gas have been developed in the United States, nearly all of them since 1900.

"THE JAZZ SINGER" ENTERS SEVENTH WEEK AT EMBASSY

New songs, acts and special features were added to the Embassy Theatre program Thursday as Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" entered its seventh week. Already thousands of patrons have returned to see this engrossing singing and talking entertainment a second and third time, so warm has been its reception. In addition to "The Jazz Singer," Movietone has been added to the program. This is the medium through which the news reel is made a living reality. It talks, sings and laughs. Through Movietone every sound is transmuted to the screen and out again to the audience.

Forestry Week comes in April, about the time some of our presidential timber will be sadly in need of conservation measures.

Generally the more people know the less they talk, and this observation applies with peculiar force to Teapot Dome witnesses.

LOYAL OPERATORS SAVE MANY LIVES

Two telephone operators, Carrie Johnson, at Fillmore, and Louise Gipe, at Santa Paula, were instrumental in saving hundreds of lives in the Santa Clara valley by their prompt, cool transmission of warnings to officials and others of the impending St. Francis dam disaster, when hundreds of lives were snuffed out. Other operators at other points in the path of the terrible disaster also received and transmitted the warnings in the smaller communities and, though the girls did not know at what moment the flood would strike and sweep away the telephone offices, all stayed at their switchboards handling the terrific rush of urgent calls in spreading the general alarm.

Every town, including and below Piru, got first word of the coming disaster by telephone, before the wall of water struck. As soon as the operators received the calls they notified the local constables and other peace officers, who spread the alarm with sirens, whistles nad bells.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps Her So Much

Cleveland, Ohio.—"I sure recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman in the condition I was in. I was so weak and run-down that I could hardly stand up. I could not eat and was full of misery. A friend living on Arcade Avenue told me about this medicine and after taking ten bottles my weakness and nervousness are all gone. I feel like living again. I am still taking it until I feel strong like before. You may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Elizabeth Toso, 14913 Hale Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

To talk all the time, it is hard to be strictly honest.

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold!

"My cousin is a baronet, Sir John St. Croix, and his son's death left no heir to his title; so that it would have died out with him, but that the king conferred on his daughter, Sylvia, the title of baroness and the right of continuance of the title in direct line, so that her oldest son will bear the title of baron."

As Marvin stated these facts, his efforts to watch his companion's face rendered his driving rather eccentric.

"Oh," she exclaimed, "is that the English titled lady they say around here you refuse to marry?"

Nothing could have been more impersonal than her tone—though he noted that her cheeks were flushed.

"Has that gossip reached you?"

"Couldn't have dodged it!" she smiled.

"By the way, I believe you told me, the first time I met you, didn't you, that you'd been 'jilted'?"

"Only once."

"What for?"

"That's what I'd like to know! Can you understand a man's deliberately and of his own free will and choice losing the chance to annex me for life? Why," she abruptly inquired, "did you jilt your cousin, that baroness?"

"I didn't. I was never really engaged to her. Our parents had a sort of understanding—"

"Did the noble lady fall in with it?"

"I never heard that she objected."

"Then don't you think you rather let her down?"

"Not so much, in my opinion, as a mariage de convenance would let her down! Anyway, my brother, whom she'll probably find much more to her taste, is going to marry her."

"Is he?"

"If she'll have him."

"And you think she will like him better than you?"

"If you'd ever met him you wouldn't ask!"

"Oh, why?"

"He's a ladies' man—has prettier manners than I have and better clothes."

"Some girls don't care for 'a ladies' man.'"

"Well, if she turns him down I might begin to be interested in her myself."

"Why?"

"If she could be so disinterested. My brother has a big income from my father. I have only what I earn."

"You haven't a very high opinion of girls, have you?"

"What makes you think so?"

"You seem to think they've no sense—preferring manners and clothes to—a man!"

Marvin felt a tingling sensation along his arm that made it difficult for him to keep his hand on the wheel, such an urgent pull was on it to snatch her to him and kiss the lips that paid him such a tribute; he was not used to compliments from girls—because he was not used to girls at all.

But the necessity, at this moment, of finding a parking spot in front of Sunbury's best hotel prevented his replying.

"I've been wondering," Meely said, as their waiter arrived with oysters, "are you going to make this educational job your life work, Mr. Creighton? Or are you 'using it as a stepping-stone' to other ambitions?" she wickedly suggested.

"Have you any idea," he seriously replied, "how hard it is to find a job an honest man can do? Pledge yourself to absolute honesty in this world and you'll starve to death or rot in jail! Public school positions are political jobs controlled by a bunch of exploiters. Show me one profession or business in which a man can be entirely honest. The church? It is to smile!—ask any pastor! Journalism? Ask John Swinton, one of America's most beloved journalists. Medicine? Read 'Arrowsmith!' The law? Ask Judge Lindsey! Teaching? Ask Scott Nearing!"

"Well, what is one to do about it?"

"Darned if I see any solution for a fellow that was born with a twist like mine!"

"Most people born to great riches as you've been, certainly are not troubled with your difficulties, Mr. Creighton! I've always been poor, so I can't quite feel your plight."

"All my life I've felt bitterly the hoggishness of our family's living in luxury on the labor of others who live on the ragged edge of poverty."

"You take life as seriously as I did at sixteen! Grow up and be a cynic like me, then you'll be happy, though rich. Can it matter to the vast universe how we worms on this tiny earth behave?"

"Not to the vast universe—but to us while we're here. Got to have traffic laws, you know, unless you can get off the high road to a road no one else uses; where, of course, you'd have a right to drive yourself to death if you wanted to. But can you find such a road? Can you—"

His voice trailed off into silence as he sat staring at her absently; for while he had been talking he had become conscious, as he looked at her, of seeing a face within a face—the childish face of that photograph of his English cousin looking out at him from the mature, intelligent countenance of this young woman.

That photograph was at this moment in his inside breast pocket. An almost irresistible temptation seized him to take it out and compare it with the living face before his eyes. Or to suddenly confront her with it and note the effect.

"Why on earth do you keep staring at me like that?" she inquired in astonishment.

He came to himself with a short laugh. "Well, I've seen worse chromos than your face!"

"Oh, don't be so impersonal!"

They laughed gayly as, having finished their luncheon, they rose to go out to their waiting car.

CHAPTER IX

Four o'clock on Monday afternoon, at which hour Meely, though not aware of the fact, was booked for something of a reception at her schoolhouse, found her dismissing her pupils with almost frantic expedition, that she might be alone to answer a letter she had received that morning, which cried, or rather shrieked, for an answer; and not a moment had she had all day to write it. Her mother was in need—distressing need—her own dear mother! So, the little sum which, in the few months of teaching, she had amassed toward her trip to Hollywood, must be sacrificed and the trip indefinitely postponed.

Marvin Felt a Tingling Sensation Along His Arm That Made It Difficult for Him to Keep His Hand on the Wheel.

She had been writing rapidly for only a few minutes, however, when her ear was caught by the sound of a car stopping outside the schoolhouse.

Marvin Creighton? Even he was unwelcome while her letter remained unwritten—and she would have to tell him so.

A knock on the door which one could not have called hesitating. It was, on the contrary, peremptory. Followed immediately by the entrance of an elderly, ruddy-faced, white-haired man who seemed, on sight, an anachronism in this schoolroom, for Meely saw at once that he was a prosperous-looking gentleman of a rather courtly bearing. Not one of the school trustees—she had met them all. Not the father of one of her Pennsylvania Dutch pupils—this was a man of the town. Suddenly her heart began to beat faster. No one else about here could possibly look like this except—yes, it must be—the elder Mr. Creighton!

What on earth did he want?

He came to the platform and, as she rose, he held out his hand. His manner, though courteous, was distant, and his countenance grave and rather forbidding.

"This is Miss Schwenckton?"

"Yes?" she said interrogatively.

"Mr. Creighton," he introduced himself. "I'm glad I find you still here; I was afraid you would have gone."

"You wanted to see me?" was her rather superfluous question. Her heart was quaking and she made a desperate effort to get herself in hand. The man looked formidable!

Drawing a chair to the desk, he motioned her to be seated and sat down beside her.

"I am planning a little gift to this school, Miss Schwenckton. A Christmas gift. Electric lights. I wanted to ask you when the men can work in here without interfering with you?"

She placed a blotter over her letter, which lay under his very eyes. She did not believe this electric light stuff; he needed an excuse to come here to see her. What for?

"The schoolhouse is empty every day after four," she replied, "and all day Saturday."

"Any day after four?" he reflected. "The schoolhouse is always empty after four?"

"Today is an exception. I stopped to write a letter."

"Ah, to write a letter?" he repeated, and she heard the skepticism in his tone. "Then you're not in the habit of receiving visitors after school hours?"

"You're my first."

"Now you surprise me! I was under the impression that—er—my son sometimes visited you here after school hours!"

He looked so coldly disapproving as he spoke that Meely never for an instant supposed he referred to his elder son, whose visits, being strictly professional, would, of course, be beyond criticism. It must be that some garbled rumor of her intimacy with St. Croix had reached the man and he was here today to put a stop to it! But how exciting! What would he do about it? Try to bribe her, buy her off? Oh, surely that sort of thing was only a "movie" device, it didn't really happen; she had never in the whole course of her life met any one who had "bought off" any one or who had been "bought off." If only she could have known he was coming, she would have made up for the part; rouged and powdered like a real "tough"; enhanced her price as a menace to St. Croix. Why, she could have made herself look so dangerous Mr. Creighton would have paid anything to be rid of her—enough to finance her needy family for a year perhaps, while she worked herself in at Hollywood. But the way she was looking just now, he must be finding her perplexing. That was why, probably, he seemed so dazed; he had heard she was a common little hussy and he found her looking respectable; as respectable as his own wife!

Mr. Creighton was indeed feeling as dazed as he looked—for hadn't St. Croix told him that the girl was illiterate, vulgar, talked the dialect of the county?—and here was a girl who looked not only like a lady, but whose sophisticated bearing and perfectly good English so astonished him that for the moment he was disconcerted; a sensation to which he was, for the most part, a stranger. The bare idea of suggesting to her that he would buy her off, pay her to go away, turned him cold. He had no least difficulty in understanding Marvin's "falling for" her.

"I'm not mistaken, am I, in taking you for the teacher?" he asked.

"I'm the noble martyr," she admitted. "Don't I look it?"

He checked the gallant retort which rose involuntarily to his lips; he'd spoil everything if he didn't watch himself—the girl was fetching.

Their attention was caught at this instant by the noise of another motor stopping before the schoolhouse.

Meely thought with a thrill, "What a situation if Marvin walks in here and finds his father warning me off St. Croix! Oh, cricky!"

She was puzzled by the accusing look with which Mr. Creighton was regarding her—did he think it was St. Croix' car out there?—and she had just denied that she ever had visitors here at her school! No wonder he looked at her accusingly!

Made Arrow Complete Its Destined Course

In the mountain province of Luzon, Philippine Islands, where the Igorots and Ifugaos and Kalingas live by primal laws duplicated in the Old Testament of the Bible, but modified by Christ's philosophy in the New, a journeying missionary priest recently was shot in the back with an arrow. He turned back trying to discover his hidden assailant, and when the young man in the bushes found out that he was a priest, he came and knelt before him and begged heavenly pardon. There was a feud on, he explained, and he had thought the priest an enemy; in the dusk of late twilight he had not recognized the priest's garb. All right, but how could they get the arrow out of the priest's back? Oh, that would be very easy and would not hurt much; so the young mountaineer stepped behind the priest, cut the feather-end off the arrow and jammed the point on through the priest's body; and then he stepped around in front and pulled the arrow out. The wound healed soon enough, no vital organs having been scotched.—Exchange.

Not Altogether Aged

There is a woman in our neighborhood who is eighty years of age, but who walks with an erectness and springiness that is the envy of women many years younger than she. The other day my young daughter saw her pass, and, turning to me she said: "Mother, her face is much older than her legs, don't you think?"—Exchange.

Timepiece Hailed as Unique Among Clocks

What is said to be the most intelligent clock on earth was recently invented by Frank Fontana, a San Francisco jeweler. The unique timepiece not only tells the time in San Francisco and 23 other cities at the same time, but it also gives the moon phase, date and day. Although the entire clock is only 18 by 18 inches square it contains something like 500 separate parts, most of which are in plain view. It took the inventor seven months to build the clock.

As early as the Eighteenth century it was very common practice for clocks to be equipped to tell, besides the time, the month, the day of the month, phases of the moon, etc. But for some reason the practice did not become general. Notwithstanding, the modern "prince of clocks" holds the record of all time in the number of performances.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Cheery News for Mothers

Oakland, Calif.—"I married very young and my children came very close together. During my first expectant period a friend told me of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I have had seven children—all very strong and healthy—and I took the 'Favorite Prescription' each time except the last, and that was my hardest ordeal. I never had any trouble with any of the others, always felt well, was able to do all my own work right up to the last, never suffered very long with any except the last one, and I am sure that would not have been had I taken the 'Prescription' as before."—Mrs. Benita Strohallen, 877 36th St.

Don't Be a Poor Fish

A story is going the rounds of a man who had a fish-tank divided into two sections by a glass partition. In one side he put a lively bass; in the other a number of minnows.

Every time a minnow came up to the glass partition the bass made a strike. Then, with a bruised head, the bass got discouraged and waited patiently each day for the food dropped in from above.

The man took out the partition. The minnows swam around the bass and were not touched. The bass was thoroughly sold on the idea that business was bad.

Take another lunge at the glass partition. It isn't there.—The Churchman.

Hawk Bests Lineman

While working in a tower on power lines near Saugus, Calif., an electric company lineman saw a bird's nest and he shoved it over with his hand. A hawk flew out and attacked the man so viciously that he fell from the tower. He was taken to a hospital with a broken leg, two fractured ribs and some bruises.—Pathfinder Magazine.

SIGNAL OR SUFFER IS WARNING ISSUED

"Signal or suffer" seems to be the slogan of the California Public Safety Conference of the California Development Association for the month of March.

Not only do motorists suffer when they are arrested for failing to signal, or when they have a smash-up with some thoughtless wanderer, but they suffer particularly when the jury says "We find for the plaintiff in the sum of ten thousand dollars because the defendant failed to signal."

The pedestrian looks for a signal from the motorist who intends to turn across the pedestrian's path, and if motorists will be sure to signal every time before turning across a pedestrian's path, many accidents will be averted.

Farmers' wagons may no longer be parked on the Nashville, Tennessee, public square. That flourishing county seat is putting on airs.

Man wants but little here below, provided he is convinced that his neighbors have a little less.

TEACH FIRE PREVENTION IN SCHOOLS

Teaching of fire prevention in schools along with fire drills, is to be highly commended. If our citizens of the future are grounded in the facts of the case, and understand the uselessness of fires, we can look forward to a time when fire losses will be reduced to a minimum.

The average citizen seems to forget that destructive fires are a great enemy of economy and progress. Eighty per cent of all conflagrations are preventable, and the result of carelessness, ignorance or incompetence. Very few fires may be classed as unpreventable.

Educational organizations are laboring to teach us practical fire prevention. Yet every year the great fire waste continues.

It is to be hoped that 1928 will see a decrease in the waste of lives, money, property, time and damage to industry. The movement to teach fire prevention in the schools will bear rsults in the future, and its sponsors are rendering a valuable public service.

We might not mind the income tax payments so much if we could skip the car and radio installments for a month or two.

INDUSTRY SPREADS

One of the significant developments of the present is the spread of industrial plants to smaller towns of the country, in contrast with the former policy of concentrating factories in large industrial centers.

Many small communities now boast extensive manufacturing establishments, which give emplyament to their surplus labor as well as afford a market for raw materials and products of the farm. This trend has been especially marked of late in the South, whose mills now consume 66 per cent of all the cotton manufactured in the United States, whereas in 1880 less than 5 per cent of domestic cotton manufacturing was carried on in the cotton states. These new cotton mills, as well as the other varied industries, are to a great extent located in the smaller cities and towns, where improved methods of electrical transmission have made an adequate and dependable supply of power available.

The rapid spread of industry in the South has been aided by the development of waterpower and great central steam plants for the generation of electricity, as well as by an abundance of raw materials, a dependable labor supply and a favorable climate.

However, the movement of factories toward the towns and villages is not confined to any one section, being more or less general throughout the country, but the trend is more noticeable in the South, because until recent years it was an agricultural rather than an industrial section. Now, as in other portions of the United States, agriculture and industry are carried on side by side, to the great advantage of both.

HONOR FOR CANADIANS

An unusual and somewhat unexpected honor came to a Canadian advertiser when the Harvard business school awarded first place to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the best institutional advertising campaign carried on in North America during 1927. A prize of $2,000 also went to the agency handling the account, a Montreal agency being the recipient. The prize was given for the railroad's diamond jubilee campaign, which was unique in the fact that its "copy" was in two languages, English and French. That a Canadian advertiser should win this award against the great number of national advertising firms in the United States is a signal honor indeed.

It is proposed to give Chicago policement definite official ranks. Heretofore many of them have been classed as rank officials.

CALIFORNIA SHOWS BUSINESS INCREASE

Considerable loose talk about business conditions has been heard since the first of the year, and in many instances an attempt has been made to create an impression that things were not as good as they might be, due to stock market activity.

Facts, however, seem to be against the pessimists.

The Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco has recently issued its current bulletin, showing that retail business for the entire Twelfth district, during the first two months of 1928, has been considerable in excess of the total volume for the same period last year. California, in particular, has shown a healthy gain. The figures for the city of San Francisco in February alone were 7.8 per cent better than the same month a year ago. In Los Angeles the increase was 7.5 per cent, and in Oakland 5.3 per cent. The southern portion of the state as a whole reflected an average increase of 6.6 per cent, and the northern district 7.2 per cent. This compares with an average gain of 2.2 per cent for the entire nation.

A definite effort has been made to show that, in particular, the purchase stock of the Bank of Italy and Bancitaly Corporation is responsible for declining business (which apparently isn't declining but actually increasing). The absurdity of this is at once evident when it is recalled that, in all, there are only 125,000 Bank of Italy and Bancitaly Corporation stockholders. Even if all of these resided in California, it is not reasonable to think that out of the 5,000,000 inhabitants of the state, the investments of these 125,000 would materially affect general business conditions. As a matter of cold statistics, there are among the stockholders of the Bancitaly Corporation many thousands scattered throughout the length and breadth of the United States, as well as in foreign countries, and the millions of dollars they have invested represent distinct additions to the prosperity of California.

But irrespective of the great weight of these facts and their bearing upon the immediate welfare of business in general, the fact remains that as the result of the enrichment of so many who have invested in the stock of Bank of Italy and Bancitaly Corporation, the ultimate benefits to be derived must inevitably find reflection in the increased prosperity of the state as a whole.

TWO HUNDRED ATHLETES TO TAKE PART IN TRACK MEET

Besides the two hundred competing athletes who will take part in the annual California Coast Conference track meet at Stanford University, May 5, there will be an equally large number of students from San Jose Teachers' College aiding in the preparation for the gala event.

One week is to be devoted to rallying for the meet, theatres and stores turning over their time and equipment to the college for advertising work. Programs will be given throughout the week by college talent at rallies and theatres.

Special committees have been appointed to take charge of the grounds, officials, programs, finance and gate, advertising, entertainment, housing, entries, equipment, guides, reception, trophies and medals.

Typewriters for use in composing music have been invented. A good many recent tunes sound as though they had been dictated but not read.

Any woman can keep a man guessing, particularly when she begins making hand signals from the car ahead.

WIDER ROADS ARE NEEDED

Discussing the advantage of wider roads, the Chicago Tribune says:

"It is contended that a rule against slow driving should be enforced to prevent congestion of traffic. On a narrow road the slow drivers clog the lane. The answer is, there should be no narrow roads.

"Road builders thought if they made the road hard and smooth and well graded, they had laid down an automobile road. They had not. They had built half a road. It ought not to be necessary to compel a driver to travel more rapidly than he cares to. Leisurely-minded people ought not to find that the age cannot tolerate their habits. There is much to commend them. They are probably more solid and substantial than habits of going nowhere at high speed.

"The narrow road is just next to no road at all. Four lines of travel are required for days in which every other person drives a car."

The slogan "good roads" is not enough. Two more words must be added, "wider roads."

The state-wide committee in charge of the ninth annual observance of public schools week, beginning April 23, has been announced by the general state chairman, Charles Albert Adams, of San Francisco.

Hunter, Oalkand superintendent of schools; Wesley W. Kergan, Piedmont; Roy W. Cloud, Redwood City, executive secretary California Teachers' Association; Arthur H. FACES SIX DAMAGES SUITS AS RESULT OF COLLISION

As an aftermath of a collision between a bus and a touring car at Belmont, January 2, at which time three persons were killed and eleven injured, the Pacific Auto Stages, Inc., and Frank O'Connell, driver of the car, have been named in six damage suits, totaling $219,192, now on file in the Superior Court of San Francisco. All of the plaintiffs were passengers on the stage at the time of the accident.

BANK'S STOCKHOLDERS DEFENDANTS IN SUIT

Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Banks, filed suit recently against the stockholders of the Farmers & Merchants Banak of Imperial, which was closed by his order on October 10, 1927, and placed in liquidation on October 15, 1927.

"Under the terms of the State Bank Act, the superintendent of banks is authorized to levy an assessmbent against all stock and stockholders of a state bank in the event of liquidation," said Wood. "On November 22, 1927, I levied an assessment of 100 per cent on the stockholders of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Imperial, giving them until December 31, 1927, to pay. None of them have done so and so a suit becomes necessary in order that the bank's depositors will not suffer the entire loss entailed by the frozen condition of the bank."

Wood is also suing the Imperial Irrigation District for the recovery of $51,000 in Liberty bonds which it is alleged were illegally given the district by the bank as security for a deposit of funds. "Under the statute governing this transaction, which took place in 1925, banks were not permitted to give security for deposits of funds of irrigation districts. This particular security was given without authority from the board of directors and there was no agreement entered into between the bank and the district concerning it. The fact that a revision of the statute, occurring in 1927, allows security for a deposit of an irrigation district as well as that of a political subdivision of the government, does not alter the law applying to this transaction, which was already accomplished before the revision."

SPLINTERS

From the H. H. Smith Lumber Yard

VOLUME I FRIDAY, MARCH 23, 1928 NUMBER 34

Published in the interests of the People of Daly City and vicinity by H. H. Smith and Employees.

Some men never read the Bible—because they didn't write it.

A want ad for an office boy brought a number of applicants. One little fellow gave the young lady at the information desk a scribbled note for immediate delivery to the boss, which when opened read: "I'm the last kid in the line. Dont' do anything until you see me." He got the job. He used his head.

You can rent a house, but when you own it, it becomes a Home.

Spend five minutes every day thinking of some good you can do someone—then do it.

Don't worry when you stumble. Remember, a worm is about the only thing that can't fall down.

A Southern darky when asked why so few colored people ever committed suicide, answered: "As I gits it, Boss, it's worry wot makes people kill 'emselfs, en' when a niggah's worried en' sits down ter think, why, he jist goes ter sleep." Moral: don't worry.

The man who doesn't own his own home gets little credit for his opinion in his home town.

While climbing the ladder of success in business few men ever see the splinters, but they surely feel 'em when they start sliding down.

Friends, like promises, when made should be kept.

Nothing is improved by anger except the arch of a cat's back.

Ring us up when you need Building Material.

If you have anything to say, say it, and with as few words as possible. That is what Abraham Lincoln did, and the world still remembers and repeats what he said.

The fellow who is always telling the faults of others reminds us of the man with a pocked-marked face who laughs at another's freckles.
